Emmanuel

School of Religion

August 2017

Emmanuel School of Religion is in Johnson City, Tennessee, based out of Milligan College. It is a graduate seminary which seeks to glorify Christ by serving the church. Emmanuel's beautiful campus is set up as a supportive community of faith and learning, involving students and their families. On-campus housing is situated in a way that families can be surrounded by the community, active campus life, and still have classes within walking distance!

In a recent letter from (ECS) President, Bill Greer, we rejoice in the official notice of reaccreditation by the Board of Commissioners of the Association of Theological Schools (ATS) for another TEN YEARS! President Greer, continues his letter," We are thankful for the confidence that our accrediting body continues to place in Emmanuel Christian Seminary at Milligan, through the strengthened position of the integration of the two campuses, as noted by the ATS. We are grateful for your investment in Emmanuel and the preparation of men and women for effective ministry for today and the future."

Prayer Request:

Please pray for the students who will beginning another semester in the Fall. Pray over the teachers, the supporting staff, the community and the families as they prepare for another rewarding year!
